UPDATE

This semester has been going very well. We have put more focus on engaging and educating students and increasing our presence in MUSC.

SERVICE USAGE

Our Waterfall hike sold out! We teamed up with SCSN, and spots for the bus filled two days before the event. We have also reached 400 likes on Facebook, and are planning on ways to get up to 500 likes by the end of the year.

PAST EVENTS, PROJECTS & ACTIVITIES

Our GIY went very well. We had a great turn out, and people seemed to really enjoy themselves. We have not yet had our Waterfall hike, but by the time of the meeting, I will be able to update you on how it went. We also had our final Used But Not Bruised Book binding session and 2 table times. Both tables went well, and volunteers other than exec members help to plan and run them. The binding session had a relatively low turn out, but lots of books were made.

UPCOMING EVENTS, PROJECTS & ACTIVITIES

We have our Waterfall hike tomorrow, an interactive table time at the end of March. During Water Week, we will be working with Watercan McMaster. We are holding another interactive table time relating to water problems, and we will be randomly replacing peoples' plastic water bottles with reusable ones at DBAC. We are looking into creating a plastic waterbottle tree for Earth Day, a Clean Up with the Science Society, and one, final event. Our Used But Not Bruised Book Coordinators are working on teaming up with The Underground for future work.

BUDGET

Next week, we are having a meeting to brainstorm ideas for one more event that should use up a large amount of the rest of the budget.

CURRENT CHALLENGES

With the year coming to an end, challenges that I face include ensuring next year's MACgreen coordinator is prepared and organized for the year to come. There are many areas that I can see now, where I could have done better. My challenge is to ensure that I show David (next year's coordinator) how to avoid the problems that I faced. Another challenge that I face will be getting the team motivated for the last few events, as March will surely be academically busy for us all.

SUCSESSES

I am very happy with how this semester has gone. We engaged lots of students and worked on collaborating with other groups. I am confident that David will expand on this next year.
